Step 3: Tell the Story of Transition!
Provided	▪ Definition of the shown story points (click on "question marks" to see help) ▪ Today's Situation: How does the conventional soldier look like? What are current requirements for military personnel? What are soldiers capable of? Where and what are possible military operational areas?
Question to answer	▪ Actor: Who is involved in or influenced by the transition? ▪ Crisis/Trigger Point: What could change everything? Which context factors might no longer work? Why are the consequences so bad? ▪ New Beginning: How will the army adapt to future environments and technological developments? ▪ Transition to the Future: How does the future soldier looks like? What is new? What needs to be changed?
To do	▪ Fill in the participants' thoughts in the white fields (short sentences)

Transition Graph
Provided	▪ The Transition Graph is automatically filled with the sentences of your group
To do	▪ One group participant will present the findings shown in the transition graph to the other groups (presenting topic, context factors, possible trends and innovations, and the transition process from conventional to the future soldier)

| 💾 | ▪ Always save your work on your laptop!
 ▪ After the game process, all "transition game" versions will be saved on a USB stick for the final presentation. |
